Terry Goddard to Speak at Tucson Courthouse Rededication

(Phoenix, Ariz. – Nov. 12, 2008) Attorney General Terry Goddard will speak at the James E. Walsh Courthouse Rededication Ceremony on Thursday, November 13, starting at 2 p.m. Other presenters at the rededication include Tucson Mayor Robert E. Walkup, Congressman Raul M. Grijalva, federal judges and U.S. General Services Administration officials.

Goddard and others will address the historic role of the courthouse and its namesake, U.S. District Judge James E. Walsh, who presided over southern Arizona's federal caseload from 1952 to 1991. Over 300 people are expected to attend the event.

Renovations of the courthouse include courtrooms, jury assembly areas, judges' chambers, restrooms, offices, mechanical rooms, the U.S. Marshals offices and conference rooms.
